MR. DAMON'S REPLY.

The patient and painstaking consideration which Minister Damon bestows upon his royalist friends, who have been somewhat eagerly prone to criticism of his department without investigation, is as complimentary to the minister as his reports and financial statements are creditable to the establishment of sound financial methods under the Provisional government of the Hawaiian Islands.

In his detailed statement and answer to his critics, made in the councils yesterday afternoon, Mr. Damon ignored the fact that the attacks made upon him were childish and pointless, and were made by anonymous correspondents for political purposes. He was right in doing so. His office is a public trust, and the public confidence is increased by the able and conclusive manner in which he disposed of and put to shame—if such a thing is possible—the royalist scribbles who were attempting to twist his clear and business-like reports so as to make political capital out of them.

It is not to be expected that the "valued" correspondents of the Bulletin will cease their attack; their plan is to retreat from evasion to evasion and keep up a running fire of weak criticisms such as has thus far characterized the royalist campaign since the revolution.

While Mr. Damon's last able and full report may not silence the Bulletin or its crowd of royalist backers, whose lack of finances and financial ability is only exceeded by their general lack of brains, it will certainly nullify any future effect which similar attacks and misrepresentations might otherwise have upon the public mind. With the full facts now in its possession, the public will be able hereafter to place its finger on the Bulletin's financial misstatements and erroneous conclusions without putting Minister Damon to the trouble of making further official explanations.

The taxpayers have thus far the best grounds for confidence in Mr. Damon and his financial ability and methods, while they have absolutely none, either past or present, for reposing confidence in the acts and policy of his late political critics.

IMPORTANT MEETING

Of the Trustees of the Queen's Hospital this Morning.

The biennial meeting of the trustees of the Queen's hospital will be held this morning at 10 o'clock at the chamber of commerce room. Of the meeting a trustee says, "We hope it will be largely attended. The various reports which will be submitted at the meeting will prove to be full of interest and will bring this community once more in touch with an institution, the need and usefulness of which is unsurpassed by any other institution of the islands."

"We wish you would call the attention of the members of the board of trustees of the Queen's hospital to the meeting, and trust that the business transacted will result to the benefit of that institution, and to the community at large."

Another False Report.

When the steamer Iwalani arrived yesterday morning, it was reported that Johnson, who was brought to Honolulu by the steamer Iwalani last Sunday, on account of injuries received from falling down the cliff at Kalalau, was dead. The report was not true, as he is still at the Queen's hospital, and steadily improving.

THE EXTRA SESSION.

THE WORK OF CONGRESS DOUBTFUL.

Hawaiian Annexation and Chinese Deportation Will Likely Come Up.

WASHINGTON, July 4.—There appears to be thus far absolutely no agreement reached as to the programme for the extra session of congress. In a general way the objects to be accomplished are known, but the plan upon which these ideas are to be carried into execution are things that must be decided hereafter. Between now and August 1, there will be little opportunity afforded the leaders of the party in power for consultation. By the beginning of the month there will, however, be a return to the city of those upon whom the policy of the democracy largely depends. No details of organization have been arranged, the question of rules has not been taken up, and above all, the solution of the financial problem has not been approached.

The leaders of the house have in contemplation measures upon which most of the time of the next congress will be spent, and are aware of the end which they wish to gain. In an informal way the leaders of the senate have been conferred with on this subject, and a general understanding exists. The administration is understood to be in harmony with these suggestions so far as they concern two or three measures, and upon others is of indifferent.

An effort will be made to repeal the Federal election law, the 10 per-cent. tax on State banks, the Sherman law, and, in addition, a revision of the tariff to a considerable extent will be tried. These, together with an income-tax bill, will probably engage most of the time of the fifty-third congress. The most important matters affecting Pacific Coast interests will be the question of Hawaiian annexation and Chinese deportation.

July 10, 1893.

There is a season in the year when most dealers are out of certain lines of stock; we get out occasionally, but we fill up as quickly as most people. For instance we've had to disappoint some customers for table cutlery, but now we have all that is required, and of the very best quality. We have also filled up short lines of the celebrated "2196" Haviland, an article that never grows old.

So many people here like hashed meat that we have imported a new style and very good meat cutter that must win the admiration of the celestial who acts as manager of the culinary department of your house. And when you are thinking of something for the kitchen, think again and get a tin of Putz polish that will brighten up every kind of metal. The water taps, that usually get dirty with age can be polished with Putz liquid so they will be as bright as gold.

Individuals who need something to sharpen their wits or their razors on can find nothing better for the purpose than one of Emerson's Razor Strogs. They are the best in use and sell very cheap.

We neglected to mention in our notice of Haviland China that our stock now contains an assortment of chocolate pots such as are in use in every house where people like to drink chocolate.

If any of our readers are admirers of works of art, their attention is called to a very excellent water color sketch by the late R. C. Barnfield in our makai window. It is an island view and has been pronounced by judges to be one of the late artist's best.
